

Ben's Best Kosher Deli - an ageless tradition...

Ben's Best Kosher Deli in Rego Park has been honored as a finalist for the Columbia University's 2015 Age Smart Employer Awards.

Jay Parker, third-generation owner, views his business as a family not a corporation. This fact is well illustrated by the three principal deli-counter staff. Their combined Ben's Best work experience approximates a century of loyalty. Their average age is 67 and, in fact, the entire deli staff tallies an average age of 52.

We found our senior employees are excellent mentors. They instruct younger staff members in evaluating and streamlining our business while maintaining the highest quality of our award-winning deli and great service. Because of this, we created a special managerial position for our senior staff.

Our success is directly tied to our entire staff and the family-business philosophy.
